

Pest Scenarios

Instructions: Cut on line and place in a container. Have each student group randomly choose a pest scenario and role-play the situation without using words, or create a solution to the problem.

A younger brother disturbs an older sister while she is studying.	Fleas have found a home on your dog and have infested your yard and home. You are beginning to get itchy flea bites.
You are playing soccer outside in the grass. Mosquitoes keep biting your ankles.	You are an almond farmer. It is late summer and the squirrels and crows are eating your new crop of almonds.
Aphids (little insects) are sucking the liquid from the leaves and buds of your beautiful rose bushes.	You are having a picnic at the park. The ants and flies have found their way to your picnic!
You have weeds growing in your newly planted vegetable patch.	Coyotes are entering your sheep ranch. They are killing and eating some of your lambs.
Deer have invaded your home garden. They just devoured your strawberry patch.	The baby lettuce plants in your school garden are being eaten by slugs.
