

The Genesis of Water Savers

So far, your years at Environment Hero School have been uneventful. They've taught you about Recycling, Advocacy, Alternative Energies, Conservation, and Restoration, all of which you already knew about. You didn't come to school to learn about stuff you already knew about. You wanted to fight bad guys and be the newspaper headliner, but that's only for 4th year students.

In your boredom, you watch TV every night, not much happens in this world. But, tonight your normal binge watching was interrupted by an emergency broadcast: Six evil Villains have started to attack your country. They don't know where these Villains came from, but the news is saying they're from Environmental Negligence. Even worse, they are led by the most terrifying thing of all, a thing so gruesome you have to look away from your TV, Plasticwerewolfe. The country is calling for help to fight these Villains, but it will take a special task force—Water Savers. Each clan must send their bravest and finest heroes, and your clan has chosen you.

Now is your chance to prove that your understanding of environmental problems and issues extends far beyond your years in school. It's your chance to have the newspaper headline.

Work together with the other Water Savers to defeat the villains and bring your world back from the brink of destruction.
